

April is for... hugging!

Dear (name)

What is April all about? We knew April had to offer something more cheerful than paying Income Taxes, so went on a search and were rewarded.

It turns out that April offers all sorts of special days, including April 26, which is "Hug a Friend Day." Reading on, we learned that hugging is one of the best habits you can develop to enhance your own health and welfare.

A study at the University of North Carolina found that when you are involved in a hug lasting for at least 20 seconds your body releases a hormone called oxytocin, and the health benefits are significant.

A good hug can:

- Lower your blood pressure
- Lower your heart rate
- Reduce your level of stress hormones
- Improve your mood

You get positive, non-toxic, absolutely free hormone therapy with a simple 20 second hug. And you give the same therapy as a gift to the person you hugged.

So don't wait – hug someone today!
